The Fund gained 3.1% in May. Global share markets pushed to record highs, led once again by artificial intelligence (AI) and the technology sector, as resilient earnings and growing confidence in the durability of AI-related investment supported sentiment. Easing tensions in the Middle East, amid hopes of a US-Iran agreement, saw oil prices fall and prompted a rotation out of defensive sectors and into more cyclical, growth-oriented areas of the market.

Positive contributors included our technology holdings, led by semiconductor company Micron Technology (+87.8%), which surged after another set of record results. Elsewhere, electrical-equipment company nVent Electric (+16.9%) rose as first quarter earnings exceeded expectations and management raised guidance for the year. nVent is a major supplier of liquid cooling infrastructure needed to prevent AI chips from overheating. Mega-cap technology holdings Apple (+15.1%) and Microsoft (+10.7%), who are well positioned in the AI era, also performed well, as quarterly earnings were robust and management reassured investors. Contract caterer Aramark (+17.1%) outperformed due to strong results with accelerating sales growth and new contract wins. Other strong performers included equipment manufacturer Keyence (+12.4%), real estate brokerage Compass (+13.9%) and instruments and biotech research company Waters (+24.0%).

Negative contributors included UK utilities companies SSE plc (-11.7%) and National Grid (-6.5%), which weakened as investors rotated away from defensive, interest rate sensitive stocks.

Closer to home, the New Zealand market rebounded in May, with our holding in Infratil (+26.4%) a strong performer. In Australia, large cap miners BHP Billiton (+16.0%) and Rio Tinto (+10.9%) outperformed, as commodity prices remain high and the companies benefited from rotation out of Australian banks.

Looking ahead, we expect elevated volatility as the Middle East situation evolves, particularly given the risk of disruption to shipping through the Strait of Hormuz. Our investment team continues to monitor developments closely; however, the timing and nature of any resolution remain uncertain. We will look to use market volatility to add to our high-conviction ideas across our preferred investment themes.
