In March, the Fund generated a return of 0.2%, in line with its objective to deliver a return in excess of the Reserve Bank of New Zealand (RBNZ) Official Cash Rate (OCR) after fees.

Short-dated New Zealand interest rates moved higher over the month, as markets priced a more uncertain inflation outlook, driven by heightened tensions in the Middle East that pushed energy prices higher. The RBNZ has indicated that it would typically look through the inflationary impact from a temporary spike in oil prices. However, their primary concern is whether this shock will influence inflation expectations and lead to more persistent domestic pricesetting behaviour, rather than just the immediate impact on energy prices. Currently, financial markets are anticipating an increase of over 0.50% in the OCR by the end of 2026.

The Fund continues to maintain a low-risk strategy, built on a diversified portfolio of cash, short-dated debt securities and term deposits, with a focus on capital preservation. While the yield of the Fund may vary over time, we believe the portfolio remains well positioned to deliver returns above the OCR after fees.
