The Fund rose 6.6% in April and benefitted from the rebound in share and fixed income markets. The NZ, Australian and global share markets ending up 7.5%, 8.8% and 10.5% respectively. Share markets reacted positively to enormous stimulus measures from governments and central banks aimed to help cushion the negative impacts from the coronavirus. We were pleased to largely keep up with the markets' performance during the month despite being defensively positioned with higher levels of cash. Performance was aided by good company selection.

Key positives during the month included companies which rebounded from sharp falls last month including NZ retirement company Summerset (+11.9%), US home Builder DR Horton (+38.9%) and Australian real estate company Scentre Group (+48.9%). The Fund's US technology investments also continued to perform strongly including Google (+16.0%), Microsoft (+13.6%) and Apple (+15.5%). We believe these large cap technology companies are structural winners given their strong market positions in attractive and growing markets. In particular we believe the cloud infrastructure and related services is likely to continue to grow strongly with growth potentially accelerated by work from home trends. Gold companies also performed strongly during the month.

The Fund was very active during the month with opportunities created by market movements and new issues. Generally, we added to structural winners and more defensive companies whilst taking profits on some of the companies which had rebounded strongly towards the end of the month. The Fund participated in the discounted issues of companies looking to shore up their balance sheets including Auckland Airport, Kathmandu, Flight Centre and National Australia Bank. These rose strongly with Kathmandu ending up 58% from its issue price.

In the short-term markets are likely to remain volatile given the very uncertain impact of the coronavirus on economies, company earnings and valuations. However, the medium-term impact on company earnings and valuations is lower with many companies' earnings likely to rebound strongly and some even benefiting. The Fund contains a mix of company investments including structural winners, defensive companies and those which have been oversold on short-term issues. In aggregate, however, the Fund remains cautious given the uncertain environment with a lower allocation to shares and higher allocation to cash than typical. We remain excited that this market will provide great opportunities for active management.
