The Fund returned 0.4% in February, bringing the one-year return to 5.9%. February was a modestly positive month, driven almost entirely by strength in global shares. Australian shares were only modestly higher and NZ shares fell. Whilst the Fund only has a small allocation to shares, much of these shares are global in nature, helping boost returns. Falling bond prices have been a headwind to returns this year, after staging a decent rally late last year.

Increased optimism about the global economy, coupled with fears of another surge in global inflation, keeps the pressure on bonds. The Fund continues to run reduced exposure to bonds and we are active in managing exposure as prices move around. Furthermore, the sharp outperformance of corporate bonds over government bonds has helped the Fund's performance over the past six months. With this in mind, we have reduced some exposure to global corporate bonds recently. We have made similar moves in global shares, where the significant gains in US shares, in particular, have allowed us to take some profits and await better opportunities to invest over coming months.

Region Exposure

1. The Fund does not have a performance benchmark, hence a market index has been included for comparison purposes. See the Statement of Investment Policy and Objectives for more details on the market index. The market index is a blend of indices that represent the Fund's neutral asset allocation. Note the Fund's investment strategy is designed to achieve its objective, which may mean that at times, the returns of the market index may not be an appropriate measure. 2. After the Base Fund Fee but before tax. 3. The yield to maturity is not an indicator of future return, but reflects the current yield to maturity of the fund's underlying holdings (before tax and after the base fund fee). 4. Where applicable, the Base Fund Fee includes an estimate of non-related underlying fund charges. 5. The Total Fund Fees comprise the Base Fund Fee and any estimated Performance Fee. Please refer to the Product Disclosure Statement for more information as to how these are calculated. 6. Includes the reinvestment of distributions. Please note past performance is not a guarantee of future returns.
