The Fund returned -4.2% in the month, with a one-year return of -5.1%. A tough month for returns with a sharp sell-off in both bonds and shares. Despite high levels of cash and reduced exposure to shares, the broad-based selling this month meant there were few places to hide from a stock selection perspective.

But the outlook is shifting. A sharp sell-off in bonds at the start of the month had significantly reversed course by month end. Rapidly weakening economic growth is not good for the share market but it is positive for bonds (which comprise 35% of the Fund). With many bond investments now offering attractive yields of 5-10%, if bond prices can stabilise then the prospect for future returns from this part of the Fund is increasing. With that in mind, the Fund has been steadily increasing its exposure to bonds in recent weeks, a process that will likely continue next month.

With returns on bonds more attractive, the Fund can comfortably hold fewer shares. At month end, the Fund held less than 40% exposure to shares, some 20% below a neutral position. Whilst the outlook for growth is deteriorating quickly, the flip side is that we may be through this cycle faster than previously thought. The Fund has the flexibility to navigate such a rapidly changing environment. With some attractive opportunities emerging, Fund positions are likely to continue to change.

1. The Fund does not have a performance benchmark, hence a market index has been included for comparison purposes. See the Statement of Investment Policy and Objectives for more details on the market index. The market index is a blend of indices that represent the Fund's neutral asset allocation. Note the Fund's investment strategy is designed to achieve its objective, which may mean that at times, the returns of the market index may not be an appropriate measure. 2. After the base fund fee but before tax and before the performance fee. 3. Where applicable, the Base Fund Fee includes an estimate of non-related underlying fund charges. 4. The Total Fund Fees comprise the Base Fund Fee and any estimated Performance Fee. Please refer to the Product Disclosure Statement for more information as to how these are calculated. 5. Please note past performance is not a guarantee of future returns.
