In July, the Fund returned 1.2%, bringing the one-year return to 6.1%.

Global share markets continue to enjoy strong returns this year, an unexpected but welcome development. In particular, the US economy is enjoying strong growth, falling inflation and an expected boom in AI-driven profitability for its large technology companies. The Fund's exposure to shares has helped capture this performance with investments in technology companies such as Meta (owner of Facebook) and Micron Technologies (a US chip maker) delivering strong performance last month.

Exposure to Australian shares was boosted at the start of the month. The past few weeks' strength in commodity prices, and optimism around China stimulus, has seen the Australian market perform well.

The Fund's corporate bonds did well last month, outperforming government bonds which continue to lag.

Different economies are experiencing diverging economic cycles, owing to different sensitivities to interest rate rises. For the Fund, with an ability to express views across countries in interest rates, currencies, and stock market exposure, this outlook should yield good asset allocation opportunities.

For now, the Fund retains its increased exposure to foreign currencies and has increased exposure to Australian government bonds vs US bonds. Share markets have likely priced in most of the good news, but we see opportunity to rotate to non-US stocks that have lagged in the most recent rally.

1. The Fund does not have a performance benchmark, hence a market index has been included for comparison purposes. See the Statement of Investment Policy and Objectives for more details on the market index. The market index is a blend of indices that represent the Fund's neutral asset allocation. Note the Fund's investment strategy is designed to achieve its objective, which may mean that at times, the returns of the market index may not be an appropriate measure. 2. After the base fund fee but before tax and before the performance fee. 3. Where applicable, the Base Fund Fee includes an estimate of non-related underlying fund charges. 4. The Total Fund Fees comprise the Base Fund Fee and any estimated Performance Fee. Please refer to the Product Disclosure Statement for more information as to how these are calculated. 5. Please note past performance is not a guarantee of future returns.
