In July the Fund returned 0.9%, bringing the one-year return to 3.7%.

Global share markets continue to enjoy strong returns this year, an unexpected but welcome development. In particular, the US economy is enjoying strong growth, falling inflation and an expected boom in AI-driven profitability for its large technology companies. The Fund's small exposure to shares has helped capture this performance with contributions from both global technology stocks and some of our bank and real estate companies.

Performance this month was also driven by the mix of bonds we own. Reduced recession fears have allowed our corporate bond exposure to outperform government bonds. Different economies are experiencing diverging economic cycles, owing to different sensitivities to interest rate rises. For the Fund, with an ability to express views across countries in interest rates, currencies, and stock market exposure, this outlook should yield good asset allocation opportunities.

Looking ahead, whilst the backdrop has improved, the recent rally in shares already reflects this reality. We see opportunities in selective company shares as well as continuing to benefit from the higher yields on offer from our corporate bond holdings.

1. The Fund does not have a performance benchmark, hence a market index has been included for comparison purposes. See the Statement of Investment Policy and Objectives for more details on the market index. The market index is a blend of indices that represent the Fund's neutral asset allocation. Note the Fund's investment strategy is designed to achieve its objective, which may mean that at times, the returns of the market index may not be an appropriate measure. 2. After the base fund fee but before tax. 3. The yield to maturity is not an indicator of future return, but reflects the current yield to maturity of the fund's underlying holdings (before tax and after the base fund fee). 4. Where applicable, the Base Fund Fee includes an estimate of non-related underlying fund charges. 5. The Total Fund Fees comprise the Base Fund Fee and any estimated Performance Fee. Please refer to the Product Disclosure Statement for more information as to how these are calculated. 6. Please note past performance is not a guarantee of future returns.
