The Fund returned 2.8% in November, bringing the one-year return to 4.6%. November was a very strong month for returns, an encouraging development after a tough year for asset prices. The month saw large rallies in both bond and share markets with a rising tide lifting all boats. In a remarkably swift change in direction from the weaker markets over the three months prior, investors have rapidly embraced the notion of a soft landing, and stocks and bonds have moved to reflect this consensus.

For the Fund, the strong performance of bonds has been the key driver of returns. In November, the outperformance of corporate bonds relative to government bonds was a strong tailwind, as the portfolio is heavily tilted to corporate bonds. On the stock side, falling bond yields helped performance of the interest rate sensitive names that we hold, such as Australian property group Stockland (+16.7%).

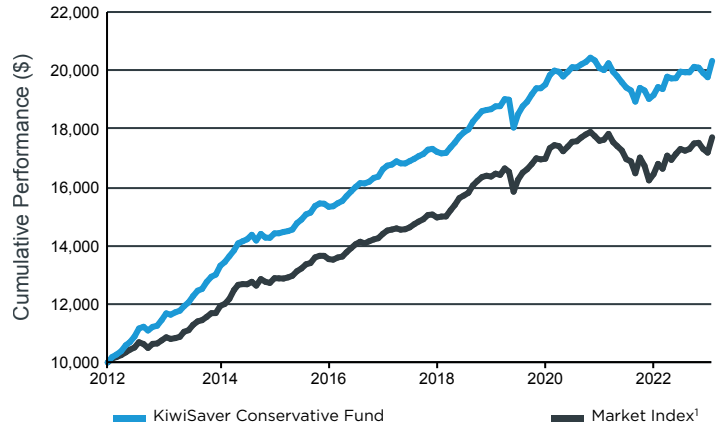

Looking ahead, we are encouraged that the cycle is evolving in a benign way, with inflation falling and economic growth remaining modestly positive. But we are concerned that investors have become a little over enamoured with the soft-landing outlook and much of the good news is already priced in. To that end, the Fund reduced exposure to both stocks and bonds at the end of the month.

1. The Fund does not have a performance benchmark, hence a market index has been included for comparison purposes. See the Statement of Investment Policy and Objectives for more details on the market index. The market index is a blend of indices that represent the Fund's neutral asset allocation. Note the Fund's investment strategy is designed to achieve its objective, which may mean that at times, the returns of the market index may not be an appropriate measure. 2. After the Base Fund Fee but before tax. 3. The yield to maturity is not an indicator of future return, but reflects the current yield to maturity of the fund's underlying holdings (before tax and after the base fund fee). 4. Where applicable, the Base Fund Fee includes an estimate of non-related underlying fund charges. 5. The Total Fund Fees comprise the Base Fund Fee and any estimated Performance Fee. Please refer to the Product Disclosure Statement for more information as to how these are calculated. 6. Please note past performance is not a guarantee of future returns.
